Robin Hallam, Chairman of the Company, commented:

“In recent discussions about how to maximise shareholder value, the Board had identified that a shareholder perspective would be a desirable addition to its composition. Various institutional shareholders approached the Board to express a similar view. Tom was identified as a suitable candidate to fulfil such a position. Tom brings a wealth of experience and skills to the Board, complementing those of our existing directors whilst also contributing the valuable perspective of an institutional investor as the Company faces a number of important strategic decisions going forward.”
